RESIGNATIONS TENDERED.

PROMINENT MEN REFUSING TO BE COM-MISSIONERS OF THE 1883 FAIR,

se Rensons Given for their Declining to Serve-An Executive Committee Elected and By-laws Adopted-An Address to be Issued-Arranging for Subscriptions. George Washington's mahogany writing lesk was in front of Chairman Stebbins yesterday, in the Governor's Room in the City Hall, when he stood up to rap for the Commissioners of the International Exhibition of 1883 to come to order. The Rev. Dr. Deems of the Church of the Strangers prayed that men may be put into the national offices who fear God, and who fear nothing else in heaven, earth, or hell. Commissioner Brown of Maine was the only Commissioner who had arrived since the previous day's session. The resignations of Richard M. Hoe, Stephen Hoe, and S. D. Babcock of New York city as Commissioners named in the act of incorporation were announced by the secretary. Mayor Cooper asked whether there were other resignations. He had been so informed on Tuesday, and he desired to hear heir names read. Chairman Stebbins said that there were other resignations. This led to a debate that occupied an hour or more.

Some of the wealthiest men in New York, who were named as Commissioners in the act of incorporation were absent yesterday and on the previous day. If any of them had offered their resignations through the Secretary, Mayor Cooper wanted their communication read, to get at the facts, whatever they might be. Ex-Gov. Crawford of Kansas asked whether the Secretary of the present legalized body of Commissioners was meant, or the Secretary of the preliminary meetings in New York.

The Mayor replied that the fact of the resignations, or whatever there was to be known, was what he wanted.

Chairman Stebbins explained that the preliminary meetings in this city were not those of a legalized body, but of a self-constituted body. Ex-Gov. Crawford insisted that communications addressed to that self-constituted body should not be noticed by the Commissioners, and he was applauded while defending this

The sense of the Commissioners was taken by a vote, and the Secretary was requested to read the communications from the absent New Yorkers. He had not the communications, and was obliged to send to his office for them. Meanwhile the Committee on Temporary

By-laws reported. The by-laws as adopted after a debate provide that the body shall be known as "The United States International Commission " and the celebration for the conduct of which the Commission is appointed shall be known as "The United States International Exhibition of 1883;" that a quorum for the transaction of business shall consist of at least fifty Commissioners; that the executive officers shall consist of six vice-presidents, a secretary, a treasurer, and a fiscal agent; that the Executive Committee shall consist of thirtyone members, eleven of whom shall consitute a qu'rum; that in the recess of the Commission the Executive Committee shall have all the powers and authority of the Commission; and that no obligation shall be incurred and no money drawn from the treasury until the amount prescribed by the act of Congress shall have been subscribed ($1,000,000), and not less than ten per cent, of the capital stock paid in,
and not until the permanent organization shall be effected.

Five Vice-Presidents were elected—Ex-Gov. shall be known as "The United States Internater of New York were nominated to fill the vacancies caused by the three resignations announced.

Mayor Coeper reminded the Commissioners that there might be other vacancies, and called for the reading of the communication that the Becretary had sent after.

Then, amid silence, a communication was read from Henry Hilton, Jackson S. Schultz, and Abram S. Hewitt, stating that the following Commissioners named in the act respectfully declined to serve as such: Charles L. Tiffany, John A. Stewart, Abram S. Hewitt, David F. Appleton, David Dows, Orestes Cleveland, Horace Porter, Henry M. Alexander, Fietcher Harper, Charles G. Franckiyn, Thomas C. Acton, Richard M. Hoe, Jackson S. Schultz, Edward Clark, Norvin Green, William B. Dinsmore, Denis C. Wilcox, Benjamin B. Sherman, Samuel B. H. Vance, and Henry Hilton. They had been, the letter said unanimously in favor of a bill prepared for presentation to Congress, which bill limited the choice of managers to the subscribers of money for the scheme. The bill was not even reported in Congress, but the present bill was carried through, making only twenty-five of the subscribers Commissioners. The objections to the precent bill are that the Commissioners have not the necessary time between now and 1833 to make adequate preparations for so great an undertaking, and that although success is not impossible, yet the attempt is not advisable; that the clause inviting foreign nations, as nations, to compete at the fair, has been stricken out—this was the rock on which the Centennial celebration in Philadelphia nearly went to pieces, and the blunder was rectified only by sending letters abroad through the President; and that the money is not handled by a commission from among the subscribers. There is no reason, the etter rectified only by sending letters abroad through the President; and that the money is not handled by a commission from among the subscribers. There is no reason, the letter said, why any of the present Commissioners, as such, should control a dollar of the stockholders' money. A board of directors should be created for that purpose from the subscribers. Furthermore, all of the fair buildings should be bonded warehouses, and goods should be stored there free of charge. These objections to the present bill were sent by Mr. Hewitt to Senator Kernan, who offered the bill that was passed, and they were not reserved to in the debate on the bill. They were, however, read in the committee to whom the bill was reserved for investigation, and so entirely did the Congressmen missapprehend the letter, that they put the names that were in the letter on the list of Commissioners named in the bill. The Commissioners named had not lost interest in the proposed fair, the communication added, but they would be glad to start one with some prospect of success.

proposed fair, the communication added, but they would be glad to start one with some prospect of success.

The letter was tabled indefinitely by a two-thirds vote. Then a hint was dropped that those who had resigned ought to be conferred with, in the hope sol arriving at a compromise, and the letter was taken from the table and referred to the Executive Committee, with instructions to bring about harmony, if possible.

The following were elected members of the Executive Committee; Edward Cooper Roswell G. Ralston, J. P. Morgan, George R. Blanch and, James L. Talcott, David Dows, William A. Cole, William B. Dinsmore, Samuel H. Haines, S. L. M. Barlow, Charles E. Grabam, A. M. Hoyt, Charles L. Tiffany, N. K. Fairbanks, W. H. Post, Prof. Smart, Alex, C. Sands, Geo. A. Crawford, Theo. C. Bates, Thomas McElrath, M. O. Roberts, Ruius Hatch, Thomas Rutter, Lewis May, E. R. Dickerson, James F. Wenman, W. L. Strong, C. B. Fisk, A. S. Sullivan, Join D. Townsend, and Thomas Barbour, They were instructed to take into consideration the necessity for the immediate opening of subscription books. The matter of choosing a site for the fair was referred to this committee. The committee met at 4 P. M. at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Mayor Cooper said that neither the State nor committee met at 4 P. M. at the Hotel.

Mayor Cooper said that neither the State nor the city can give aid in money. Philadelphia gave $1.500.000, and Pennsylvania $5,000.000 to the exhibition of 1876.

The Executive Committee were instructed to report what additional national and State legislation will be necessary to get public money.

H. G. Stebbins, Prof. Smart, the Rev. Dr. J. P. Newman, W. G. Le Duc, and J. Henry Behan were appointed a committee to prepare an adversary project.

The action of the New York, Lake Erle and avenue, Paterson, N. J., thereby, as is nileged, serious injuring the trade of the saloons on that thoroughfare Monday evening. Alderman Quinn presented a resolu-tion that the Committee on Ordinances be instructed to prepare an ordinance competing the railroad company to lence in their tracks within the city limits, and to place gates on all street crossings with proper persons to attend them. He said the company had built one from that will incommode door working people, who are how imported to go about a print action of the railroad company would drarrive several thousand mill bands of their diliner, as the distance around could not be ac-complished in an hour. But when the voting came the resolution was delested, eight to three. The deprecia-tion of property along the line of the barricaste is alleged to be fifty per cent. From the Continuati Empires.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9.—Last night a reporter was sent to Oswego, Kan., to meet the Bender family. This evening a special telegram was received which says: "At 10's this morning the supposed Benders, who were brought to Oswego in charge of a Sheriff to be identified by their old neighbors, were removed from the jail and taken to the court room. The place was filled in a very few minutes, and all crowded around to catch every word. Prosecuting Attorney Walters occupied a seat beside the old woman, and put to her numerous questions. Mr. Matt. Miller, who lived lived near Benders at the time the butcheries were committed, was called on to identify them, but as soon as he had obtained a glance he said they were not the Benders, and such seems to be the opinion of all present. It is now definitely known that McGregor was an inmate of the Bender house for six weeks; but it is almost ascertain that the old woman was never there. McGregor, as he calls himself, says that he was present when one man was dropped through the trap door, and was killed by Kate and John in the cellar below. He claims that this was the only murder he ever saw.

Parties here who know old Bender say there is not the least resemblance between this man and Bender. Witnesses are expected from Cherryvale at 2 o'clock, when the question will finally be settled. It has been learned that the prisoners passed up the Gulf road going to Nebrask about six weeks ago. This is reliable. There is no excitement, and the general impression at this writing is that the right parties have not been captured.

At 2:32 P. M. the train from Cherryvale did not bring any of the old neighbors of the Bender family, and things stand as they did not bring any of the old neighbors of the Bender family, and things stand as they did not being any of the old neighbors of the Bender family and things stand as they did in the preceding despatch. Prosecuting Altorney Walters is convinced that the prisoners are not the Benders, but a From the Cincinnati Enquires

The Messenger Boys' Strike Ended.

The strike of the American District Telegraph messenger boys is ended, and all the lads are back at work who can get lack. About fifty have been discharged. "They are the ringleaders," said an official;
"boys who would ultimately have been discharged any way, for they are the 'rough scuri' of the lot, always ready for any mischief, and trying to drag others int ready for any mischief, and trying to drag others into trouble with them. The boys who are at work are evidently glad that they are back again. Only a few of them ready wanted to strike. Some of them went into Eucause the leaders did, and others because they were dirad of them even imped by the bigger boys if they did not quit work. The boys took the very best time—for in all they waited a few months longer they might have done in which to strike. This is our dullest season. Had they waited a few months longer they might have done in considerable damaire. As it is, they inconvenienced us for a day or so, lost their own time and pay, and now are back just where they started from, except that many of them have lost the confidence of the managers."
